To whom it may concern:

I have known Emanuel Costa for over 10 years, professionally and eventually personally. At a professional level, Emanuel has an outstanding Internet skill set ranging from web development, web design, project management, search engine marketing and database design. On a personal level, Emanuel is a self-motivated person, always willing to help, a great communicator and with a large network of friends.

The combination of these technical, professional and personal skills makes Emanuel an extremely valuable asset in any team or organization.

I have no doubt that your organization will admire Emanuel's ability as much as I have. I am honored to recommend him to your organization on the capacity of building database driven web sites.
